ISHAN GALA RESEARCH GRANT

Supporting neuroblastoma research is an essential part of the Foundation's mission. Ishan Gala Research Grants will be offered annually. As we are a relatively new foundation, we have not established a routine grant cycle or deadlines, so we encourage you to check back for future application deadlines. At the same time, we welcome correspondence from those working in the field.

Although we have not yet decided on deadlines for our next round of grants, some may find it useful to know what the Foundation will expect from applications. Grant applications should include:

- 1) A cover letter with your name, organization, and brief description of the work that you would like a grant to support.
- 2) A CV for the individual(s) who will perform the research. If your employer is not a university, then please include the most recent annual report for your organization.
- 3) A letter or essay describing the research project in detail, a request for a specific amount of funding, and your intent for how the grant money will be used. Suggested length: 300 to 1200 words.
- 4) A detailed breakdown of your project budget, a preliminary timetable for your project, and a table of anticipated quarterly progress towards project goals and completion.
